Visas for minors or persons under 18 years of age:

The Department of Home Affairs must be satisfied when assessing visa applications for minors (applicants under the age of 18 at time of visa application) of parental consent from all responsible parent(s) or guardian(s) to the grant of an Australian visa. Form 1229 - Consent to grant an Australian visa to a child under the age of 18 years, will be required to be submitted as part of the application for a visa as evidence of this consent. Form 1257 – Undertaking declaration, will also be required for a person nominated as a person responsible for the support and general welfare of a person under 18 years of age.

Minors who are travelling without their parent and/or guardian may need to provide additional documentation with their visa application, even if they are travelling with other family members. For further information please see <https://immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/form-listing/forms/1229.pdf>, and <https://immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/form-listing/forms/1257.pdf>

Biometrics:

Visa applicants outside of Australia will need to provide biometrics when they apply for a visa that is part of the Australian biometrics program, and are from a country, that is part of the Australian biometrics program.

For information regarding Australia's biometric program including visas and countries that are part of the program, please see: <https://immi.homeaffairs.gov.au/help-support/meeting-our-requirements/biometrics>

Visa Application Process and Processing Times:

Processing times may be impacted by changes in application volumes, seasonal peaks, complex cases, and incomplete applications.

Visa applications are assessed on a case-by-case basis, and actual processing times can vary due to individual circumstances including:

- whether the applicant has lodged a complete application, including all necessary supporting documents and paid associated visa application charges
- how promptly the applicant responds to any requests for additional information
- how long it takes to perform required checks on the supporting information provided
- how long it takes to receive additional information from external agencies, particularly in relation to health, character, and national security requirements
- when the application is lodged taking the current global visa processing times into account

Visa applications should be lodged at least 6 to 8 weeks prior to an event participant's intended date of travel to Australia.

Obligations of visa holders:

Visa holders must comply with their visa validity and visa conditions while in Australia. When granted an Australian visa, they are issued with a visa grant notice that explains the conditions of the visa, including the approved period of stay in Australia and entry requirements.

A visa may be cancelled if the visa holder breaches any of the conditions of the visa. Visa holders should carry a copy of their visa grant notice when travelling for their own reference.

It is the visa holder's responsibility to be aware of, and abide by, any conditions of the visa as explained in the visa grant notification. This includes the number of entries to Australia permitted under their visa, and the period of time they can remain in Australia. If the visa ceases while the holder is still in Australia, the holder will become an unlawful non-citizen and may be detained and removed from Australia. The visa holder may also be subject to an exclusion period, which could prevent further travel to Australia for a specified time.

Supporting Documents:

Please note that it is the responsibility of the applicant to lodge a complete visa application including all required documents. The department may decide a visa application without requesting further information from the applicant.

Applicants must include as much information as possible to support their applications including:

Genuine visitor documents:

Applicants should provide as much proof as possible to show they are visiting Australia as a temporary visitor only:

- proof they have enough money for their stay, and to leave Australia, such as:
 - itemised personal bank statements showing a 3 month period
 - pay slips
 - audited accounts
 - tax records
 - term deposits
 - credit card statements
- the applicant's plans while in Australia.

Applicants should show the department that they are a genuine visitor and have reasons to return home by providing:

- a letter from their employer stating they expect them to return to their job
- proof they are enrolled at a school, college or university in their home country
- proof they have close family members in their home country
- evidence of their right to return to their home country
- proof they own property or other assets in their home country

Business visitor documents:

Applicants should tell the department what business visitor activities they plan to do in Australia by providing:

- an invitation from a host organisation
- conference registration details
- a letter from your employer stating why you are visiting
- your plans for your stay and details of your Australian business contacts
- proof of your current employment and professional qualifications
- evidence your company is an active business, such as an annual report
- evidence of prior contact with Australian businesses

Conference participants applying for the Visitor (subclass 600) Business stream visa should provide additional information and documents to support their visa applications including, but not limited to:

- evidence of any international travel outside of their own country (for example, copies of visas and passport pages containing entry and departure stamps)
- information and evidence of attendance at similar events, conferences, or congresses of this type
- evidence of family composition overseas
- information and evidence of any property or assets they have in their own country.
